Talent soars at Fort des Prairies Jamboree

Music filled the North Saskatchewan River valley on Sunday as Fort George and Buckingham House historic site and the Friends of the Forts hosted the Forts des RALPH AND ADELE JOHNSON and Harry Hryniw combined their talents in song.

Prairies Jamboree. The afternoon celebration of song, poetry and tall tales attracted a number of new performers this year, as well as many favorites from past jamborees.

Despite gloomy predictions, the sun shone brightly through most of the afternoon, and sent the audience in search of shade. One cool spot was the Interpretive Centre, where visitors could see Elk Point's history on the Historical Society website, purchase a Friends of the Forts membership, or view displays of art from the Paint Out, trace the routes of the Iron Horse Trail and Carleton Trail on a huge map, or take a tour through the gallery.

Performing for the first time at the Forts were Kim and Elaine Bidlock of Edmonton, with country vocals, George White of St. Paul with great guitar music, Sylvia Rath with some old country favorites, vocalists Joan Triplett of Ashmont, Chester and Annette Whelan of Mannville and Allan Hickock of Wainwright and fiddler Johnny Levesque of LaCorey.

New to the jamboree but certainly not to the area was Adele Johnson of St. Lina, daughter of Allen and Delphine Young of Lindbergh, who is a talented singer and songwriter. Her husband Ralph is also a great singer, and the two teamed up with perennial Jamboree favorite Harry Hryniw of Two Hills for some memorable music.

Other favorite entertainers included Guy Bouchard, Andrew Pearson, Russ Kowtun, Greg McNeill and Adelard

Bilodeau, who also provided the excellent sound system for the afternoon. Peter Fidler descendant Walter Roland offered a traditional Red River Jig to Johnny Levesque's fiddle music, while Roy Scott added rhythm with his spoons and mule bones. Scott later added the beat of his latest acquisition, a native-type drum, to the musical combination of Kowtun, Hryniw, White and Bouchard.

Another highlight of the day was the appearance of two of the site's interpreters, Melissa Easthope and Kirsten Sanders, complete with plumed hats and paddles, who joined songwriter Rob Holliday and Gabe Bayduza in the Voyageur Song, written for the Bicentennial of the forts.

Cowboy poet Mereline Griffith of Goodridge, who accompanied the RCMP March West and entertained at several evening events, was on hand with several poems which delighted the horse lovers in the audience. Vicki Brooker added some rodeo and chuckwagon poems.

Forts Jamboree

History buff Marvin Bjornstad had two very different poems to offer, these being retrieved from the archives of pioneer doctor F. G. Miller, one about the hungry days resulting from a homesteading attempt and one by Miller's sister about a holiday trip on the North Saskatchewan.

No Fort des Prairies Jamboree would be complete without its Bullshooting Contest. Defending champion Karen Doyle went head to head with Mereline Griffith, Greg McNeill and Adelard Bilodeau, with Ms Griffith's far-fetched tale about Roy Scott winning the prize.

The afternoon wound up with more music, as participants came back for a second round on stage.

Summer is over - and school is back in!

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Can you believe that our summer is over? Now Fall is here with the month of September and our children are back to school.

Speaking of school, that reminds me of what a grandmother said to one of her grandchildren. She said, "now that you have learned your ABCs, tell me what a truck starts with." The young boy thought, and then he said, "Grandma, of course I know, it starts with a key!"

As school starts, some of our young children will be walking, some riding and some driving. Yes, if they are driving, a truck does start with a key, but to those who will be driving, please drive safely and stay focused. To the rest of us, let us remember our little ones who may forget to look before crossing the street.

Speaking of attending school, I found this story by an unknown source that I noticed has recently been made into a country song. It is titled: "Covering All The Bases."

A little boy was overheard talking to himself as he strode through his backyard, baseball cap in place and toting ball and bat. "I'm the greatest baseball player in the world," he said proudly. Then he tossed the ball in the air, swung and missed. Undaunted, he picked up the ball, threw it into the air and said to himself, "I'm the greatest player ever!" He swung at the ball again, and again he missed. He paused a moment to examine bat and ball carefully. Then once again he threw the ball into the air and said, "I'm the greatest baseball player who ever lived." He swung the bat hard and again missed the ball. "Wow!" he exclaimed. "What a pitcher!"

I love this story because it really explains the importance of believing in yourself. As our children go back to school, it is our wish that they will believe in themselves and do their best this year at school.

To the teachers, we wish you the best as well. Each new year for our teachers is a new year of challenges. We hope you will believe in yourselves as well. To find ways that each student will learn is not always easy.

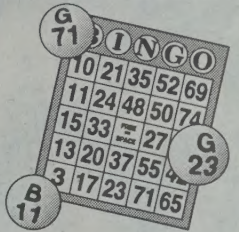

There is a quote from Oliver Wendell Holmes which he made after attending a meeting at which he was the shortest man present. "Dr. Holmes," quipped a friend, "I should think you'd feel rather small among us big fellows." "I do," retorted Holmes, "I feel like a dime among a lot of pennies." What both of these examples have shown is the importance of believing in oneself no matter if you are a student or a teacher. So, "go for it," student and teacher, and have a good year, every-one.

IT'S BEEN FUN -- agreed this group from the Summer Reading Program at Elk Point Public Library, at last week's windup.

Sentimental about Summer Reading

By Carlen Mutch
Summer Reading Program

Sitting here writing this article I can't help but feel slightly sentimental. This is my last article and by the time that it appears in the paper, I will be enjoying my last day of summer vacation before it's time to go back to school. The summer just seemed to fly by. I can still remember the times when my desk was clean, I was caught up with my work, and there were still three pens on my desk. But now it's time for me to wrap up everything here and get back into the swing of things. I do have a few things to pass along first, though. Thank you very much to Karina for all the help that she gave me throughout the summer. I probably would have gone crazy without you. Thanks also to the parents who stayed on some days and helped with the program. It was greatly appreciated. Also thanks again to everyone that I mentioned in previous articles.

Last week we had our final day, the notorious "wind-up party." I hope that it lived up to the kids' expectations because I know that they were quite high. There were games and we were even going to watch a movie but we ran out of time. The kids had a lot of fun with the bug toss and making up their own countries. There were lots of prizes and everyone walked away with at least one thing. Congratulations to Bailey Oster and Natalie Maas for reading the most books in their age categories.

Well, that just about wraps everything up. I hope that all the kids had fun this summer because I certainly did. It was a memorable experience and I learned one thing that I will never forget: never, ever leave ten four and five year olds alone with glue and glitter. Not even for ten seconds.

■ Summer winds down

Final fun for Forts day camp

By Melissa Easthope, Kirsten Sanders and Crystal Tessier
Interpreters

Last week was our final week for Day Camps at the Fort. On Tuesday, each child experienced what it would be like to be a warrior by playing games. We also made bows and arrows out of Saskatoon shrubs.

Our theme on Thursday was friends and foes. The day campers played some pioneer games: tag, tug of war, and kick the can. After that we made lanterns.

On Saturday, we had beautiful weather for our final day of fun with the day camp children. Eight parents, 11 day campers and their younger brothers and sisters came to celebrate and have fun playing some games, working with compasses, making crafts and starting fires with flint and steel. We also enjoyed some skits put on by the day campers themselves!

We hope that everyone who has come out and visited the fort this year whether it was through having a tour or attending day camps, that you all had fun and enjoyed your visit with us! Good luck in the coming school year and we hope to see you all back next year!

■ Safety first

School's open: drive carefully

It won't be long now before sidewalks, school bus stops and roads will once again be filled with children walking and biking their way to school. With this comes the increased risk of a deadly collision between a child and a motor vehicle, says the Alberta Motor Association.

"During the summer, drivers forget about school kids, bus stops and crossing zones, says Joyce McBean-Salvador, provincial coordinator for AMA's 62-year-old School Safety Patrol program. "We urge people, especially parents who are dropping their kids off at school, to pay extra attention when driving during the next few weeks to avoid a serious incident."

Kids are particularly vulnerable to being struck by a vehicle because their actions are unpredictable and they are smaller, making them harder to see," says McBean-Salvador. "We really want to get the word out so we can reduce the risk of a tragedy."

Some tips for drivers:

- Get in the habit now of recognizing school zones on your route.
- Look for bicycles, children playing or AMA School Safety Patrol members, which indicate children nearby.
- Scan between parked vehicles and other danger zones where children are hard to see.
- Drive with headlights on at all times so children and other drivers can see you.
- Be prepared to take evasive action -- fast!
- Avoid using cell phones while driving, especially in the hours before and after school.

"Driving always demands our full attention, but it is especially important at this time of year," says McBean-Salvador.

DAY CAMPERS LAST DAY -- was celebrated with an afternoon of fun and games with their parents and families. The group posed with the interpreters by the big teepee (above) and then set out for a trek through the woods with compasses for guidance. Interpreter Kirsten Sanders gives some last minute compass instructions (right).

Calling all overdue books: your vacation is over!

If you see our books out there, please send them home!

By Karina Mitchell
Librarian

As the kids go back to school (here is where parents can breathe a sigh of relief), and the rest of us settle back into our regular routines, it is that time once again at the Library. Ah yes, the dreaded overdue book.

Now, I don't like to harp, and I definitely don't want to be a pain, but we do want our books back! I realize that they can be slippery things (sometimes you'd swear they had legs) and they like to find dark, quiet corners to lurk in. Sometimes they disguise themselves as one of your own books, sitting innocently on the shelf in your living room. Deep down, they know where they belong, and trust me, an overdue library book will never truly be happy until it is returned or renewed.

So if you come across a book that has our stamp on it, please bring it back to the Library. I will be calling this month to remind you if you have overdue books.

New Books at the Library...

Picture Books:

The planet Naboo is being invaded and the Queen needs to be warned. The best way to the Queen is underwater. But will they make it through to the core without being gobbled up by undersea monsters? Star Wars: Dangers of the Core by Jim Thomas, illustrations by Boris Vallejo.

Jar Jar Binks is clumsy and has made Sebulba very mad. Will Jar Jar get crunched, or will he learn to be more careful? Read Jar Jar's Mistake and find out. By Nancy Krulik; illustrated by Richard Walz.

Sirko is a faithful dog who has served his master for many years. But now that Sirko is old, his master's wife no longer thinks he is worth keeping. Sirko's friend the wolf helps Sirko prove his worth to his master. Will the plan work? Sirko and the Wolf, a Ukrainian tale adapted by Eric Kimmeland illustrated by Robert Sauber.

For Young Adults:

Because Walnut is near sighted, he cannot earn his adult name the way other boys do, by hitting a target with a bow and arrow. But with his highly developed other senses, he shows he can "see what can't be seen" and earns a new name. Sees Behind Trees by Michael Dorris.

Most kids might think that their teachers are pretty batty, but could Mrs. Jeepers actually be a vampire? When she takes the third grade to space camp, the Bailey School Kids make it their mission to find out. Mrs. Jeepers in Outer Space by Debbie Dadey and Marcia Thornton Jones.

For Adults:

The Aaron Hansen story: off to the big time

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

A few weeks ago the Midget White Sox had their wind-up party at Telus Field. We got a package deal, they call it the Bullpen BBQ. You sit in a picnic area, right by the bullpen, close enough that you could reach out and touch the players and talk to them. It's an excellent way to wind up the season. Anyway, it was a beautiful warm night and as we watched the pitchers warming up I talked with Aaron Hansen who told me, "This would be the life. I'd just love to be playing baseball every day." Well, kid, hopefully someday you will.

Lots of kids from this area have been scouted to play hockey, but how does a kid who started playing ball in Dewberry get noticed? It took talent, drive, desire and practice.

In his second year of Peewee, Aaron played in Vermilion as a pitcher, winning A Provincials. Then Aaron was picked up by North East Edmonton for the AA provincials, and then picked up as a pitcher for the AAA provincials with Sherwood Park, where he won another gold, and then, get this — he went on one more level to the AAA nationals in North Bay, Ont.

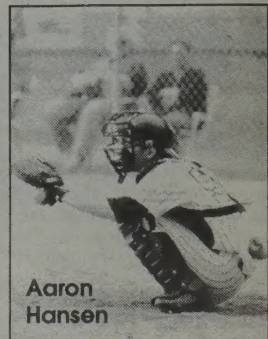

But it doesn't stop here. As a first year bantam, Aaron, still pitching, won AAA provincials with Sherwood Park, then went on to the AAA westerns in Saskatoon. As a second year bantam, he once again won the AAA provincials with Sherwood Park and went on to the nationals in North Bay. Then, Aaron played on the 14-and-under team with St. Albert in the USABA World Series Tournament and won the most valuable pitcher of the tournament. This is where he really got recognized by the scouts, and was listed. (There were two teams from Alberta and eight from the US and St. Albert won the bronze medal). As a first year midget, Aaron was a pitcher, centre fielder and first baseman with the AAA team in Sherwood Park. As a second year midget he played AAA in Fort Saskatchewan, until he injured his elbow, his season was over and he needed surgery to repair it.

That fall his elbow was operated on, and it looked like the end of ball for Aaron, but when spring came, Aaron started to throw again, with his Dewberry buddy Nathan Matthews, who convinced him to come play in Elk Point. This was a bonus for the Sox, he became the team's top pitcher with an earned run average the lowest on the team at 2.9. Then, when Jordan Bassett injured his finger, he was put in to catch. This was his first time ever at catching, but he was a natural and proved that he was not only valuable to the team as a pitcher but as a catcher also. Not only that, he led the team with a batting average of .545, had 4 home runs and only struck out 5 times all season.

After the Midget A provincials in Elk Point, the phone started ringing, with teams from Grand Prairie, Alliance, Millet, Red Deer and Leduc all wanting to pick him up for the AA provincials. Millet won the draw and obtained Aaron's rights for the provincials in Stettler, where he pitched and caught. Two weeks later he was picked up by Leduc and pitched and caught in the Western AA Final.

Some of the top players in the big league are now Canadians, Larry Walker of the Colorado Rockies and Zimmerman of the Texas Rangers are two. Scouts are looking further north. But even so, just think of the challenge for a Canadian trying out against all those Americans. Baseball, after all, is an American game.

This fall Aaron is going to two identification camps. One is to try out for the Alberta team going on a ten day college tour in October to play against Lethbridge, some northern states and the University of BC. The second camp, and this is a real biggie, Aaron has been invited to attend the Atlanta Braves Rookie Camp. That's right, the Atlanta Braves of the National Baseball League. Give it your best shot, kid, and don't look back!
